Let Random Words Spur Your Creativity

By Kevin Eikenberry

You can use the words on the following pages to help spur your creativity. They can be used to help you generate metaphors or to make connections between your problem/challenge and a random word.

There is no magic in these words. The key is that they are random.

Once you select a word discipline yourself to look for the connections that you can find to that word – if you immediately pick a different word, your brain won't ever search for the novel connections, it will just wait for you to change words again. Pick a word, and work with it for awhile. There will be connections if you allow yourself time to find them.

Another fun way to use this list is to pick two words randomly and work on the combination of those words in relationship to your problem, for example:

“Volcano knot”

Do those two words together help bring new ideas to your challenge?

Select a method of selecting one and have fun with the creative ideas they will help you discover.
